New Step Toward Economy

Hoover Will Speak In Washington Next Monday Night

By Jack Bell

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—(P)—Herbert Hoover is coming back to Washington to push along a new drive to reorganize the government as a step toward economy.

The Republican former president will speak next Monday night before the national reorganization conference. His theme will be one that some GOP party members are voicing as a rallying cry for the 1950 congressional campaigns—a contention that excess spending and high taxes are threatening the existence of the republic.

Speaking at a non-partisan forum, Hoover is expected to stick to his main topic that widespread savings can be made by reorganization of the government.

Covered Broader Field

In a preview of his speech in New York last week, however, he covered a broader field. He said that the principal danger to the republic lies in the attitude of many groups in the country who think they ought to be fed by the taxpayers instead of making a living for themselves.

This is the sort of thing Senator Taft (R-Ohio) has been talking about in attacks on the hand-out state which he says is the Truman administration's aim. Guy G. Gabrielson, the GOP national chairman, varied the phrase by calling it a "poorhouse state."

Hoover said economy in government is a practice, not a theory. He is likely to find a difference of opinion in Washington over how much economy is practical.

Easy to Talk
Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), who agrees that wasteful spending ought to be eliminated, said it's a lot easier to talk about cutting the budget than to do it.

The Wyoming senator heads the Senate-House economic committee. He told a reporter he thinks that any effort to cut outlays for such items as highway building and fighting stream pollution would merely reduce the opportunities for business and "cast a wet blanket upon our economy."

He noted that money for national defense, international payments, veterans benefits and interest on the public debt now accounts for about 75 per cent of the budget.

Ways of Reducing
"The only substantial way of reducing expenditures beyond what the president has attempted is by further curtailing necessary outlays to contain Communism, to prepare for national defense and to meet obligations arising from past wars," he said.

O'Mahoney's committee will go over budget procedures with budget director Frank Pace in a closed session today.

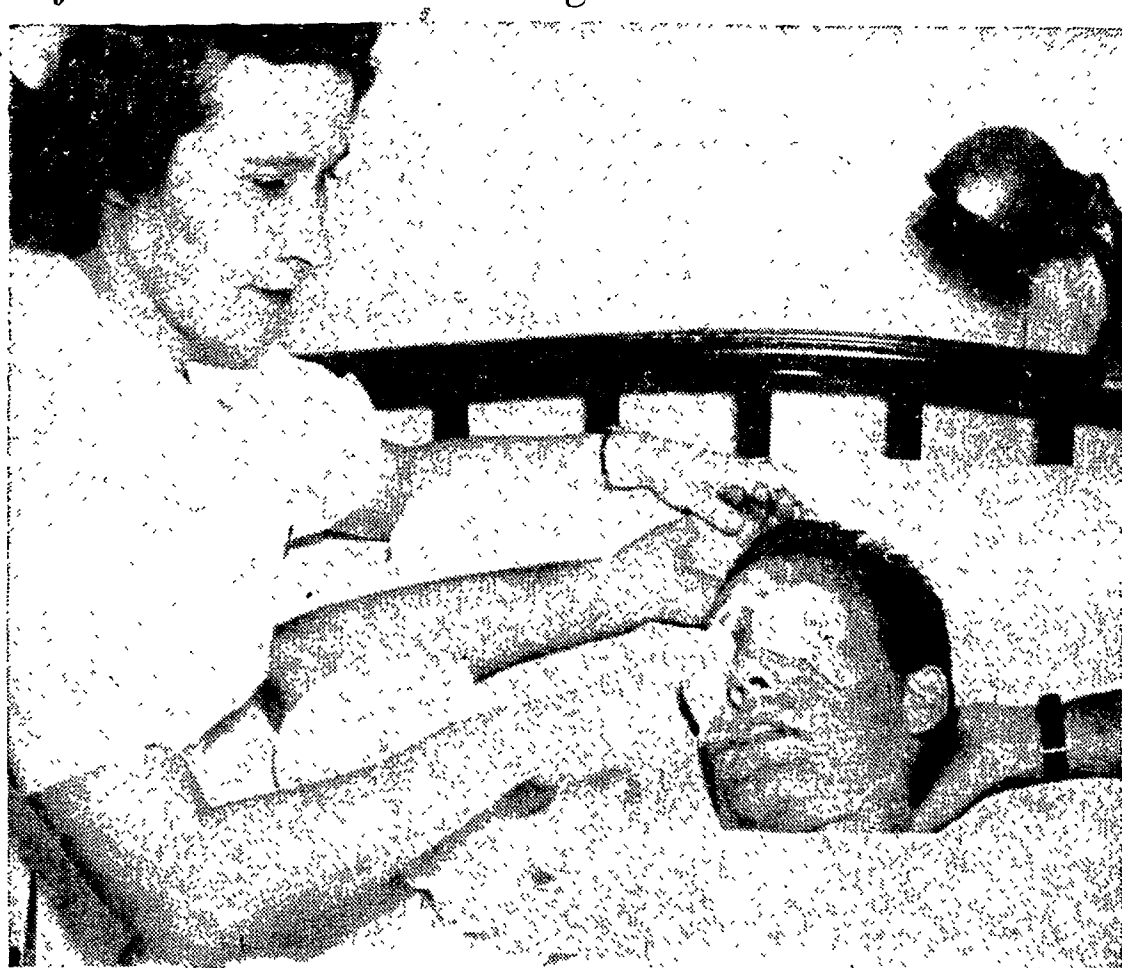

It will begin hearings tomorrow on business investment practices in a roundtable conference with members of the commerce department's small business advisory committee.

Offer to Sell Turkeys
WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—(P)—The Agriculture Department today offered to sell 725,000 pounds of dressed turkeys to boost Christmas supplies.

The turkeys were bought by the department during the fall under a producer-price support program.

The turkeys represent largely birds of smaller sizes, supplies of which are now relatively short and prices somewhat above support levels.

Injured in Oklahoma College Fire

Nurse Kay Hicks looks after Guy Mixon of Shreveport, La., who lies in bed in the students' infirmary after a flash fire whipped through a two-story men's dormitory at the University of Oklahoma at Norman, killing three and injuring or burning more than a score. The building, valued at $700,000, was leveled within minutes and is a total loss. (NEA TELEPHOTO)

No Reduction At Mo-Pac Yet, Due to Fire

Survey Must be Completed Before Making Future Plans

The Missouri Pacific, as yet, has not found it necessary to make a reduction in the number of employees of the reclamation plant at the local shops, which was destroyed by fire Saturday afternoon, at a loss estimated in the neighborhood of $375,000. If and when the layoff becomes necessary, it will probably affect about 100 employees, it was indicated.

J. R. Fullerton, general storekeeper for the Missouri Pacific Lines, has arrived in Sedalia and is making an inspection of the damage caused by the destructive fire. Fullerton said temporary facilities are being pressed into service and they do not know for certain how much of a reduction will be necessary. "There will be no actual reduction for several days," he said, "work will be carried on the best it can be with what they have to do with at the present time."

No Definite Plans
L. L. Studer, district storekeeper, said no definite plans, as to rebuilding can be determined until a complete survey of the loss is made. He also said it was still impossible to determine the exact loss until after insurance adjusters arrive and go over the equipment with railroad officials. Studer also said he expected other St. Louis officials to visit the local shops this week.

The fire, Saturday, discovered by G. O. Tindell, watchman, occurred at 12 o'clock noon. Before the shop fire department or the Sedalia fire companies arrived on the scene the entire reclamation building, 507 feet long, was a mass of flames and it was impossible to save the structure.

All fire hydrants and water mains on the shop grounds, as well as a steam fire pump there, are the property of the Missouri Pacific. The Sedalia Water company furnishes water for the shop system and at the time of the fire the pumping to the usual fire pressure to see that plenty of water was available to battle the flames. During the first part of the fire one main in the west end of the grounds burst, causing a shutdown temporarily in that section of the grounds.

Normal Weather Over Nation
By The Associated Press
Virtually the entire nation had normal late-autumn weather today.

The only variances were snow flurries in northern New England, upper and northern lower Michigan and scattered points along lakes Erie and Ontario. Southern New England and the northwest coastal region reported rain.

Worse still, the Indian government allowed him only 1,500 pounds ($4,480) when he set out to visit England last summer with his Scottish wife. The move from fashionable Claridge's hotel to the seven room flat is an attempt to make it last.

The potentate's wife, now known as Sandra Devi, was Miss Alexandra McBride before her marriage in 1948. She was nursing supervisor in a hospital. She is his wife number 2. His other wife remains in India.

Apology Good Only as Long as Mother Listened

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 5—(P)—The small boy and the telephone operator had a slight misunderstanding.

She couldn't catch the number he wanted and asked him to repeat it several times. Finally, he exploded:

"The operator cut him off. Fifteen minutes later, a woman's voice inquired if this was the operator who had cut her nine-year-old son off the line. The operator replied it was and the woman said "Just a minute, please."

"My mother wants me to apologize to you for what I said," declared the small boy.

The operator accepted his apology and connected him with the number he had been trying to get.

Final scene a half hour later—the small boy and the operator on the phone again. The small boy speaks:

"My mother just went out of the house. I still think you're dumb."

Frank Cohalla Now a Citizen

Frank Cohalla, 31 years old, 710 East Broadway, was sworn in as a citizen of the United States before Judge Dimmitt Hoffman in circuit court this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

The new citizen came to this country from Spain in 1928, and resided in the state of Florida before entering the armed services during the war. He spent three years in the U. S. Air Corps.

He met his wife, the former Miss Helene Irwin, in 1943, when he was stationed at the Sedalia air base. They have a five-year-old son, named Frankie Joe.

Mr. Cohalla is a carpenter, employed by Dewey Guinn, contractor. C. J. Long, naturalization examiner of Kansas City, made the preliminary investigation to determine whether or not Cohalla would qualify as a citizen.

Leaped From Window
KANSAS CITY, Dec. 5—(P)—A leap from a second-floor window of a burning house here yesterday resulted in fractures of the left elbow, hand and foot for Miss Juliabell Stephens, 18.

Damage to the house was estimated by firemen at $2,300.

Case Under Advisement
JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 5—(P)—The Missouri Public Service commission took under advisement today the request of Southeast Missouri Telephone company for increased rates that would bring in an estimated $834,000 more each year.

Worse still, the Indian government allowed him only 1,500 pounds ($4,480) when he set out to visit England last summer with his Scottish wife. The move from fashionable Claridge's hotel to the seven room flat is an attempt to make it last.

Z. Lyle Brown Coordinator Of UNESCO

Organization is Symbol For Great Peace of Nations

At a meeting held in Jefferson City December 4, George W. Diemer of Warrensburg met with his executive board and 60 county coordinators from all parts of Missouri to plan a state wide program for the promotion of UNESCO, the United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization. Dr. Diemer, who is president of Central Missouri State College and chairman of the Missouri Coordinating Council for UNESCO, has named Z. Lyle Brown of Sedalia to serve as Pettis county coordinator. Brown together with Rotary district governor Ray Lippard attended the planning meeting at Jefferson City.

The Missouri council is primarily a clearing house agency to promote the work of UNESCO through county and local organizations, public schools, service concerned with human welfare and world peace.

Programs Obtainable
Schools, service clubs and other groups or organizations of Pettis county can obtain programs with a United Nations and UNESCO theme, Brown said.

UNESCO is the symbol of a great crusade for peace by nations, large and small, whose leaders believe that "since wars begin in the minds of men, it is in the minds of men that the defenses of peace must be constructed." "Ignorance of each other's ways and lives has been a common cause throughout the history of mankind," reads the preamble to UNESCO's constitution, "of that suspicion and mistrust between the peoples of the world through which their differences have all too often broken into war." UNESCO's task, then, is to promote understanding among all these peoples . . . to help remove the tensions which lead to war . . . to foster cooperation among nations in all efforts which seek better living standards and a fuller life. It is in the fields of education, science, and culture that UNESCO makes its effort. It must fashion a practical program in which all citizens can take an active part—not simply the leaders in education, the sciences and the arts. That program is in the making today and all of us can help carry it forward, Brown pointed out.

Two Killed, One Injured in Car Wreck
EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Dec. 5—(P)—An automobile overturned on a curve near here yesterday, killing two men and injuring a third.

Highway Patrol officers said James L. Still, 36, Trenton, Mo., and John C. Church, 36, were killed. Troopers identified Church as a hitchhiker who had no permanent address.

Merle Vaughan 34, also of Trenton, suffered minor injuries. He was the driver of the vehicle.

Former Joplin Resident Dies
SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 5—(P)—J. E. Farish, 91, former owner of the Joplin, Mo., News-Herald, died Friday at his rural home near here.

He was owner of the Missouri paper for several years prior to 1908.

Business Men Feel Inflation And Deflation

Believe Condition Will Not be Known Until Spring

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—(P)—Business is in the middle again. Businessmen all over the country feel the pull of both inflation and deflation, forces that appear to most observers to be closely matched just now.

Winter resort owners in Tucson, Arizona, are asking if inflation is in the cards—meaning easy and plentiful money back east, and more customers for winter resorts.

A secretary in San Francisco asks if inflation is on the way back—meaning rising prices for the things she buys, while her own pay rises much more slowly, if at all.

It may be spring before we know: Whether we're headed for another boom; whether we're in for a sharper bust than last spring; or whether we somehow or other have achieved the unexpected—an almost painless retreat from postwar inflation to a lower but still prosperous plateau of business activity.

Cite Pickup Orders

Perhaps more persons think that inflation is the stronger force just now. They cite the pickup in orders which revived backlogs in such industries as paperboard, shoes and textiles. They list the rise in prices, here and there—such as, tires up seven per cent in a month, Du Pont's four per cent hike in rayon viscose yarn over the week-end, and coffee prices bumping the sky.

Supporting the view that inflation is coming is the quick rebound of steel production after the strike, and the word today that Jones & Laughlin, the nation's fourth largest steel producer, expects a hike in price on this basic product. Other items are the easing of the threat of a coal shortage and the prospects of labor peace; the building boom; the slowly mounting cost of production in many industries; and the steady climb of installment buying to record highs.

Essence of Inflation
Chief argument that inflation is on the way lies in the swelling tide of government spending, the treasury's deficit financing, and insistence on low interest rates. These offer the essence of inflation which is the increasing of the supply of money and the cheapening of its buying value.

On the other hand, many observers cite their own list to show that deflation may still have quite a way to go yet, and that the recent upturn in business may be temporary.

Businessmen themselves have slowed down their own spending for new plant and equipment. The building boom reflects largely governmental and institutional construction, and the revived boom in home building, spurred by the high marriage rate. But the expansion of production facilities is slowing down.

Also, farm income is falling and the government predicts it will fall farther. Food prices are weakened, at the farm level at least by surpluses. Some even question the ability of the government to support prices if another bumper crop next year piles up additional surpluses in government bins.

Milner Hotel Improvements

The Milner Hotel, Second street and Lamine avenue, is being sand blasted by workers of the Brick-Re-Nu company of Kansas City.

According to Howard K. Spaulding, manager of the 102 room hotel, the trim on the outside will be dark green and the metal work on the building will be painted black.

The manager, who came to Sedalia from Detroit last July, said he expected the men would complete the sand-blasting sometime this week. After that work is completed, the workers will point and fill up the loose cracks with mortar.

In addition to several small contracts to sand-blast and paint small buildings in Sedalia, the Kansas City company completed two other major sand-blasting jobs, the City Hall building and the structure located at Third street and Lamine avenue.

Painters Helping With Decorations

The Christmas chapel is now at the court house entrance and is waiting for the members of the painters' union to find time to give it a new coat of red paint.

The group from the carpenters' union No. 1792 worked all day Saturday erecting the church, donating their services as their part in the Christmas decorations. The men in the group were T. E. Baugher, Hollie Beard, J. D. Shaw, Harry Moore, Hubert M. Brown, Charlie Stuart and R. C. McVey.

Shirley Divorces John Agar

Shirley Temple, who endeared herself to the public as a child movie star, and her husband John Agar, who were divorced today in Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5—(P)—Shirley Temple divorced John Agar today, testifying that her marriage to the handsome actor was turbulent. She accused him of paying too much attention to other women and of drinking too much.

Courtroom spectators gasped when the one-time child star testified that Agar's conduct once forced her to leave their house and consider "driving over a cliff."

She said that when she was five months pregnant Agar had brought another woman into her bedroom and urged her to go out to a party.

They have a daughter, Linda Susan, 22 months.

The couple separated last Oct. 12, the day before she sued for divorce.

Frequently, she said, he left her alone in night clubs while he danced with other women and kissed them.

Also, she declared, Agar frequently came home "very drunk," and with lipstick on his face.

Miss Temple, 21, and Agar, 28, were married in Beverly Hills, Calif., Sept. 19, 1945, while Agar was in the air force. It was one of movieland's big romantic marriages.

Miss Temple said that once her husband told friends: "You can't have fun with Shirley. She won't get drunk or even take a drink."

She said that after that pronouncement Agar went out and got drunker, returned in two hours, fell down some stairs, ran out of the house, passed out on the driveway and her brother had to put him to bed.

Mrs. Franklin testified that once she heard Agar tell Shirley: "You're repulsive; why don't you let your hair grow long?"

A-Bomb Material To Russia

Evidence of Such Shipments in 1943 Presented to House Committee Today

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—(P)—A former Air Force major testified today he once found some "Oak Ridge" material in a suitcase bound for Russia. He said there was also a White House note signed "H. H." saying "had a hell of a time getting these away from Groves."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—(P)—Senior Investigator Louis J. Russell said today the House Un-American activities committee has evidence of three shipments of atom bomb materials to Russia in 1943. He said he had no information that the late Harry L. Hopkins was connected with them in any way.

Russell was a witness before the committee on whose staff he serves.

He said that former Air Force officer G. Racey Jordan, who has said Hopkins was instrumental in shipping atom bomb ingredients to the Russians, will appear before the committee this afternoon.

The information on three shipments of A-bomb materials was not new. A former member of the committee, John McDowell, Pennsylvania Republican, told the House and reporters about it last year.

Committee Counsel Frank Tavenner said to Russell:

"I would like to ask you whether in the course of your investigation any information came to your attention x x x that the late Harry Hopkins was involved in any way?"

Name Never Brought Up
"To the best of my knowledge," Russell said, "his name was never brought up. But another name was brought up and I would rather bring his name up in executive session."

McDowell had said two high administration officials were connected with shipments. Russell said it was determined that after the first shipment of atomic materials to Russia the Manhattan Engineering District, which developed the atomic bomb under direction of Gen. Leslie Groves, "cut off all sources of supply of uranium material in the United States."

The second shipment, Russell said, was obtained from a Canadian source.

Letter from State Department
Russell read a letter from the State Department, dated June 11, 1948, to a staff member of the committee which said export licenses were issued in March, 1943, for a first shipment of 200 pounds of uranium, uranic oxide and 200 pounds of uranic nitrate.

An export license was issued for 500 pounds of each for the second shipment. Other evidence indicated this was in April, 1943.

Also in April, 1943, there was a third export license for 25 pounds of uranium metal itself.

Furthermore, the State Department advised that in November of that year arrangements were made for Russia to get 1,000 grams of heavy water.

The State Department said it had nothing to do with the transactions but was merely supplying information from records of the Lend-Lease Administration and the Foreign Economic Administration, whose remnants it absorbed.

The Russian officials who were after uranium supplies, Russell said, were N. S. Fomichev, N. S. Stepanov, Col. A. N. Kotikov and V. Finogenov of the Russian Purchasing commission and a General Rudensky.

Russell said the committee had been unable to get actual manifests for the shipments but he said the committee got some oral testimony that they were flown from an air base at Great Falls, Mont., to Fairbanks, Alaska, and on to Russia.

The committee began its investigation about May or June of last year and now has reopened it, Russell said.

Prayers of Irish Orphan Boy Answered; Chum Comes to US

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—(P)—The prayers of Charles Robertson, a six year old Irish orphan boy are being answered.

His buddy at the orphanage in Dublin is in this country too and will be living not far away.

Charles arrived at Marshall, Mo., a year ago. The adopted son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Marion Robertson. Each night in his prayers he would add one for Tony Markey.

"If only Tony were here," he would add.

Yesterday Tony arrived in New York. He was met by his foster mother, Mrs. W. King Prior of Jefferson City, Mo. Prior is a representative of the Veterans Administration.

The Priors and the Robertsons are friends. That is how the Priors, a childless couple, heard about Tony. So they made arrangements to adopt him.

Mrs. Prior and Tony will leave for Jefferson City by train tomorrow. Then, maybe next week, there will be a reunion of Charles and his buddy.

• The Washington Merry-Go-Round
 Senators Take a Holiday in Spain; Recommended American Loan to Franco After Gay Time
 By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Here is a contrast between what two groups of Americans have done to influence their country's standing abroad. One is the Junior Chamber of Commerce in Texas. The other is the half-inebriated senate appropriations subcommittee traveling through Spain.

First, the antics of the senators. The subcommittee, head by Sen. Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma, traveled in a special Air Force plane, including six crew members, two stenographers, three clerks, three wives and a doctor—Dr. William E. Lovelace of Albuquerque—to look after the health of New Mexico's Senator Dennis Chavez.

"They call this a junket," carefully explained Senator Thomas to newsmen, "but that's a misnomer. The country's spending seven billions of the taxpayers' money, and the taxpayer is entitled to know how the money is being spent. That's what we're looking after."

But the senator glossed over the fact that the U. S. A. is spending not one cent of money in Spain. "One of the senators had a relative in Spain he wanted us to meet," Thomas explained, presumably referring to Senator Chavez.

Arriving in Madrid at 3:30 p. m. Saturday, the committee was received by Foreign Minister Martin Artajo, then attended a reception at the American Embassy, then drove the next day to Toledo, attended a fiesta, witnessed the training maneuvers of some young bulls for a bull-fight and saw a gypsy "Flamenco" dance.

During the latter part of this fast-moving entertainment, several of the senators obviously were in no condition to report intelligently on what they were seeing.

Bibulous Senators

This column is not interested in whether a public official drinks or doesn't drink. We have no great concern even if he gets blotto—as long as it's in private. But when a group of U. S. Senators spend the taxpayers' money on an official mission where they represent the United States government, then they have an obligation to keep sober—at least in public.

The United States has great prestige in Spain. Americans are considered sober, hard-working people. Therefore, it does not help us as a nation when a group of senators act as if they were on a week-end binge.

Senators Maybank of South Carolina and Robertson of Virginia were abstemious. But in varying degrees, their colleagues were not.

As the festivities wore on at Toledo, the Spanish hosts tried hard to get food into their friend, Senator Chavez of New Mexico, who kept mumbling:

"I'm a Catholic, a Spaniard and a Yankee gentleman, and I don't give a — who knows it."

Finally, Senator Thomas, whom the Spanish press referred to as "Cotton" Thomas, corralled most of his committee plus the Spanish hosts around a table as if he were presiding over his senate agriculture committee back in Washington, and tried to hold a hearing. But everybody wanted to talk at once. Finally, the senator from Oklahoma concluded:

"I move that the foreign minister convey this information to this young man, the ambassador." He pointed to Charge D'Affaires Paul Culbertson, who is not an ambassador, due to the fact that the U. N., in a very important debate, has voted against ambassadors to Spain. "He," continued Thomas, "will then convey it to the state department which always keeps the senate well-informed."

Maybe The Swedes Were Right

In other words, if the senators were going to get their report from the state department anyway, they might just as well have saved the taxpayers' money and stayed at home.

Finally, one American asked Senator Thye of Minnesota:

"Why did you come here at all? It's obvious that you can't see anything during this brief week end."

"Well," replied Thye, who at home is a serious, hard-working senator, "we have a military attache here. And we have a naval attache here. And we have consulates. And it's our duty to see that they are properly representing the United States."

"But you arrived on a Saturday afternoon when these offices aren't open," remonstrated the American, "and you leave Monday morning before they open."

"You've seen a Fiesta, you've had a Fiesta, and you've danced a Flamenco," added an American lady, "but what have you seen of Spain?"

Undaunted, the senators flew to Paris in their special Air Force plane Monday morning. And out of their vast fund of week-end knowledge about Spain, they announced that Dictator Franco should receive an American loan of $100,000,000.

Note—Maybe the Swedes were wise in not rolling out the red carpet for the Thomas committee.

Texas Diplomats

In contrast, here is what the Junior Chamber of Commerce is doing in Texas:

The Jaycees' program is called "Universal Understanding," and since they have no Air Force airplane and can't use the taxpayers' money to tour Europe, their plans are not so ambitious as the senators' though probably more effective.

What they are doing is forming contracts by mail with groups of young men in Europe in order to exchange letters and get better acquainted. The Jaycees of Amarillo, Texas, for instance, are writing to young men in Salzburg, Austria, which is about a two-hour drive from the Iron Curtain.

In Salzburg, Austrian youth at first formed the Austrian-American youth bridge in order to learn more about the U. S. A., later wanted to set up a Junior Chamber of Commerce of their own. Next year the Amarillo Jaycees are sending a Texan to Austria so they can all get better acquainted.

This unspectacular, people-to-people friendship by a lot of American groups all over the country is doing more to plant a solid foundation for peace than all the junketing senators combined. Eventually, and if practiced widely enough it may build a more solid understanding than the Marshall Plan.

Note—When the Salzburg youngsters wanted to set up a Junior Chamber of Commerce, Eric Geiger of Salzburg wrote the Amarillo Jaycees about their problem in getting permission from the government to change their constitution. Imagine the Elks, the Lions Clubs, Rotary or the Knights of Columbus having to get permission from the government every time they wanted to change their constitution!

John L. Lewis' Tactics Don't Measure up to Past Record

By Peter Edison
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Like the autopsy on Gargantua, psychoanalysis of John L. Lewis would probably reveal a great deal. Anybody who could take the week-end off, to roam at random with pick and lamp through the caverns of the Lewis mind, should be able to dig up many curious formations.

There are all kinds of experts on the Lewis mental processes running around at large. They ascribe definite motives for every Lewis action, and figure out deep strategy which they say the mine leader has been following to obtain his objectives.

But there is a decided possibility that all these fine theories are only so much guesswork. The idea that the Lewis personality is a crystalized thing, just the same now as it was 10 or 20 years ago, may be wrong. Some of the people who have been up against Lewis in the 1949 coal scuffle have begun to wonder if the old man knows just what he does want, or how to go about getting it. Hence all the stumbling.

In past coal crises—there have been 22 coal strikes since World War I—Lewis has usually stated just what he wanted and then gone out to get it, hitting hard and with telling effect. In this process he has been aided many times by "the breaks." One group of operators has knuckled under to his terms, forcing the others to tag along later.

Tide Running Out?

The breaks began to go against Lewis last year, when the government moved to slap an injunction and fine on the miners, and made them stick. This year the welfare fund got Lewis into serious trouble. And for once, from March to the end of November, the operators stood together. It is the mine leader who seems to have been unsure of himself and confused. How else explain his angry outburst and kicking at a cameraman in a Washington hotel?

The 1949 coal contract discussions began last March with a two weeks' futile strike protest against the appointment of James Boyd as director of the U. S. Bureau of Mines. Since then there have been two other strikes of one and three weeks and two-and-a-half months of three-day weeks "to stabilize the industry."

This year's roundelay has been all over the landscape. Various meetings of operators with Mr. Lewis have been held in White Sulphur Springs, Bluefield, Washington and New York. But there have been no real negotiations.

Lewis has stated only in general terms that his miners should have greater rewards for the industry's greater efficiency and higher productivity per man-hour. To questions from the operators as to just what terms Lewis wanted in a contract, there have come surly replies of, "I won't tell you." Then, by grapevine rumor and inspired leak, there have come to the operators hints on terms:

An increase in the welfare fund royalty payments from the present 20 cents a ton to 40 cents. A reduction of the work week from the present seven hours' work in an eight-hour day, to six hours' work in a seven-hour day, with no reduction in pay.

What His Demands Add Up To

What this amounts to is roughly an increase in the hourly pay rate from $1.78 an hour to a fraction over $2 an hour.

What both demands add up to is an increase in the price of coal by from 30 to 35 cents a ton.

On the other side of the picture, the mine operators have had two principal demands they wanted to talk about. The first was elimination of the contract provisions saying that the United Mine Workers would work "when willing and able." This clause has been largely responsible for Lewis' erratic performance this year, enabling him to violate the old principle of "no contract, no work."

The second big demand from the operators has been for pension and welfare fund management that made sense. The pre-war management has not made sense. Lewis has been able to dictate its policies. The fiasco of Senator-Trustee Styles Bridges' $35,000 salary and legal fees, the payment of $24,000,000 in benefits more than its $90,000,000 collections, the suspension of payments and finally the dismissal of 400 fund employees are all indications of how the fund has been run.

Actual collective bargaining on these issues, up to the eve of the Dec. 1 strike deadline, was practically non-existent. Figure it out if you can. The truth seems to be that—like the old gray mare—the mine workers' boss ain't what he used to be. Every Napoleon in history has had his day, but he has also had his Waterloo.

Smart Tricks of Courtship Spell Trouble After Marriage

A technique may work fine during courtship—yet cause nothing but trouble if it's used after marriage.

For instance, during courtship a little competition is a fine thing. But after marriage a man doesn't want to have to compete for his wife's undivided attention—whether the competition comes from other men, his in-laws, her job, or the girls she is still sitting with at a bridge table when she should be home to greet her husband.

During the dating period it may seem cute for a girl to appear to be helpless. But once she is married, helplessness becomes addle-brained inefficiency, and no man thinks it is cute.

While the courtship is on, a girl may be able to get by with being the young and gay life of the party. But once she is a man's wife, he begins to squirm whenever he thinks she is making herself conspicuous.

After Marriage, No Questions

Before marriage a woman can find out anything she wants to know about a man by asking questions. Her questions are flattery, because they show she finds him interesting. But after marriage if she wants him to tell her anything she had better wait for him to volunteer. Otherwise, he'll shut up like a clam, thinking she is trying to keep too close tabs on him.

While he is courting her a man takes it for granted that his girl will keep him waiting. That's all part of the game. But after marriage, she'd better be on time if she doesn't want a grouchy husband.

Before marriage a few tears will get a girl anything she wants. After marriage when the tears well up in her eyes her true love is very unlikely to leave the house, closing the door sharply behind him.

The Doctor Says—

Safeguard Your Child Against Exposure to Scalp Ringworm

BY EDWIN F. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

During recent years there have been a number of serious outbreaks of ringworm of the scalp in children. This is in some respects quite different from ordinary ringworm, and although it is comparatively easy to prevent, it is quite difficult to treat.

This kind of ringworm is likely to produce scaly patches on the back or sides of the head. On these patches the hair appears dull in color and is often broken off near the roots. In fact, the hair may fall out entirely in irregular areas.

Treatment is not too satisfactory, as most of the ointments containing chemicals which work on other kinds of fungus infections of the skin are not successful for this. X-ray treatment has been used with some success.

Take Precautions

The most important thing to do about ringworm of the scalp is to recognize its infectious nature and to stop it from spreading. The backs of seats in movie theaters seem to be responsible for a great many cases. In outbreaks of scalp ringworm it has been suggested that movie house furniture should be disinfected once and afterwards the backs protected with paper covers which could be changed fairly frequently.

When ringworm of the scalp is really epidemic in a community an attempt should be made to find all of the cases by making a survey of the school children, and examining the pre-school children in families where an older brother or sister is found infected. Children in institutions are even more likely to be exposed than children in homes and, therefore, are especially in need of examination. Barbers can be of great help by being on the lookout for this condition.

The CAMEO

CHARLIE REDDY roused his sleeping passenger, Tom O'Neill, whose white head came up with: "Where are we? Oh, home. Home, sweet home. Home is where the heart is. Home is the pigeon. Clay pigeon. That's me, clay pigeon. Come in, Charlie. Nightcaps all around."

Reddy followed him out of the car. O'Neill fumbled for his key, found it and inserted it without too much difficulty in the lock of the blue door. He stood aside.

"Enter, my friend. It's been a long time since a guest has crossed this threshold. I've been a lonely man, Charlie. A sad, lonely man."

Reddy walked in and remembered to take the door to the left that entered the O'Neill living quarters. The one to the right, he recalled, led to the potter's studio. There was a small lamp burning in the living room. Tom moved around lighting the others and the place took on a warm, cheerful look. Reddy glanced around—everything was in order, but there was a heavy layer of dust on the table tops.

Tom backed toward the kitchen, waving Reddy to a chair: "I'll fix up the nightcap, won't take a minute. Scotch for you, isn't it? Little soda?" He caught Reddy's nod.

Reddy shifted around in his chair, trying to overcome a sensation of uneasiness that seemed to be constricting his stomach muscles. He realized that, although hoping his newest theory was correct, he actually was, at the same time, banking on the fact that it was not. Because, if he had hit on the right answer, there was something he should be doing at this very moment—something other than sitting here waiting for O'Neill.

O'Neill brought the Scotch and soda. For himself, he had concocted a tall, clear drink in which a squeezed lime floated.

He glanced at his watch, switched on the radio, and settled himself to wait out the half-hour he'd allotted himself before returning to Tom's house. He closed his eyes and rested his head against the upholstery. He supposed he should go back to the hospital and tell the Chief what he had in mind, but he decided against that—it was too possible he was chasing a wild goose.

"It is written," he muttered wryly, "that he who chases the wild goose saves himself a heck of a lot of embarrassment by going it alone."

CHARLIE REDDY's head jerked up as he came out of his doze. He flipped the light switch on the dashboard and consulted his watch—it was time to go back to O'Neill's, the old boy was sure to be pounding his ear by now.

He got out of the car, locked it and started off in the direction of Tom's studio, his rubber-soled shoes making no sound on the sidewalk. He grinned slightly as he impersonally took his own snapshot: Gumshoe Reddy, the Sam Spade of Dolorosa, gliding through the shadows, hot on the trail of murder. Cloak and dagger stuff!

He turned into the alley that cut through behind the main street, the road was graveled and he frowned as his steps set up a steady crunching sound. He passed backyard fences, garages and garbage cans and finally paused at a frame shed which he knew was part of Tom's workshop. He stared at the house—it was reassuringly dark.

Keeping close to the shadowed side of the shed, he made his way around to the door and tried the lion latch gently. It was locked. But he had expected that. The studio-workshop had two doors, this one and the one that entered from the house. Reddy crouched down and picked his way through a thicket of bushes to the low wall surrounding the patio. He peered over it. Everything was silent. A fragment of moonlight picked out the gleam of water in the big goldfish pool and threw an eerie highlight on the giant pottery frog squatting on the center pedestal.

THE STORY OF THE SAVIOR

The Christmas Story begins far back in Faith and Vision. Christ's coming was foretold many generations before his birth.

Abraham, a remote ancestor, prophesied it. Jesus said, "Abraham rejoiced to see my day." (John 8:56.)

Ruth, who "gleaned in the field after the reapers," was the great-grandmother of King David and a Gentle ancestor of Jesus.

David, the shepherd boy who became king, was 27 generations before Christ, who was sometimes called "Prince of the House of David." Prophets spoke of a greater David who was to come. (Matthew 1.)

Denies Defying Merit System

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 5—(AP)—Francis Smith of St. Joseph denied today the state board of training schools is defying the state merit system.

Smith, chairman of the board, said he regretted that the board's action in retaining P. D. "Pat" Sweeney as superintendent of the state training school for boys at Boonville had been interpreted as defiance.

Actually, he said in a letter to Ralph J. Turnes, state personnel director, the board takes the view that the legislature did not intend for the board's director and its three juvenile training school superintendents to be covered by the merit system.

Sweeney was retained as superintendent at Boonville although he was not among the top three men certified to the board for appointment after merit system examinations.

Smith, a former state senator, said that if a legitimate controversy exists about the civil service status of the superintendents' jobs, the board hopes to refer it to the legislature for clarification.

Turner asked the attorney general Saturday to decide whether the disputed job is covered. He said the board's action in ignoring his certifications struck at the heart of the whole merit system.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 5—(AP)—

Some steel prices almost certainly will increase soon, says an industry spokesman. The spokesman, who asked that his name not be used, declared increasing labor and material costs are rising, and he added all steel companies are surveying the situation with an eye to price adjustments.

"It may not be a general increase but it is almost certain in my mind that some adjustments will be necessary on some lines," the spokesman declared.

His remarks came on the heels of statement from the head of the nation's fourth largest steel producer which left little doubt consumers ultimately will pay more for steel.

Declaring that production costs are rising, Admiral Ben Moreell, chairman of the board of Jones and Laughlin Steel corporation, declared:

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—

(AP)—The Supreme Court today upheld an Arkansas "right to work" law which makes it a crime to use force or threats to keep a worker from any lawful job.

In another decision, the tribunal ruled 6-2 that the old Wagner Act permitted the firing of workers who tried—despite a closed shop contract—to have their union replaced by a rival labor organization.

The Taft-Hartley Act flatly bans such discharges.

MOSCOW, Dec. 5—(AP)—All Moscow papers today reported factories throughout Russia are holding competitions to increase production in honor of Prime Minister Stalin's 70th birthday, Dec. 21.

Special articles listed resolutions by workers groups in various industries promising to increase output before the birthday celebration.

BERLIN, Dec. 5—(AP)—East German Protestants were urged by their church today to stand their ground and fight out their problems rather than flee to the west.

Bishop Otto Dibelius said in special message to millions of Evangelical (Lutheran) churchgoers in the Soviet zone that west Germany is already overcrowded.

Five persons died in Berlin.

HONG KONG, Dec. 5—(AP)—Evacuation of the new Chinese Nationalist capital at Chengtu, 170 miles northwest of Red occupied Chungking, apparently began today.

A special dispatch to the newspaper Sing Tao Man Po said government officials assembled at the Chengtu airport at 2 a. m. (Kchengtu time) for air transport to Formosa, island fortress 100 miles off the south central China coast.

The front end of the Reider car was badly damaged and there was considerable damage to the right rear fender and wheel on the Frerking car.

Truckers Face Higher Taxes

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 5—(AP)—Trade barrier laws of some states are hampering the trucking industry, Missouri truckers were told today by Henry E. English, president of American Trucking Associations, Inc.

English told members of the Missouri Bus and Truck Association in an address prepared for its state convention that existing laws are increasing truck operating costs and making it hard for them to engage in interstate commerce.

An attack against trade barrier laws was started late in the 1930s and the war years, English said. But he added the trucking industry is still faced with restrictive laws in too many states.

U. G. Lewellen, manager of the State Association, told the truckers they face higher tax programs. He urged every member of the industry to unite to combat them.

Lewellen said the increased taxes may come on gasoline, a tonnage tax or a reciprocity tax.

He denied that trucks are tearing up Missouri's highways and said maintenance costs are lower on state highways where truck traffic is heaviest.

Bogus Check Charge Filed
A bogus check charge has been filed against J. H. Nelson, Springfield, in connection with passing a check at the St. Louis Clothing Co., in payment for merchandise he purchased Saturday afternoon. Nelson is being held in the county jail pending arraignment before Magistrate W. M. Ilgenfritz.

Nelson was arrested on South Ohio avenue by Officer Ted Brown and Special Officer Frank Strain, as he walked out of the Quinn Shoe store.

Merchandise he had purchased had been taken to a local tavern, where he asked to leave it while he continued his shopping. Police recovered the merchandise.

Strike Ballots Being Mailed

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 5—(AP)—Strike ballots were being mailed today to local unions representing 50,000 workers of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

Worker sentiment was being obtained because of a lag in contract talks between the company and Division 20, CIO Communications' Workers' Union.

The ballots, which would permit union officers to take strike action if necessary, are to be returned to the union's headquarters here by Dec. 22.

A spokesman said the required formalities for calling a strike will have been completed by that date.

The union seeks wage increases and improvements in working conditions for employees of six states.

McKenzie's Column

The London lawsuit over the affections of the late Sir Hugo Cunliffe-Owen, tobacco magnate developed a highly interesting spiritualist angle.

Lady Cunliffe-Owen, American-born widow of Sir Hugo, sued Miss Marjorie Daw on charges of libel and alienation of affections. Miss Daw was accused of influencing Sir Hugo against his wife by means of alleged letters from his dead son giving an unfavorable impression of Lady Cunliffe-Owen.

This case has been settled out of court, and with that we can dismiss it, since my sole purpose in mentioning it was to draw attention to the spiritual angle. Spiritualism has long had a considerable following in England, and I was living there at the time when its great leader was the late Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, famous creator of Sherlock Holmes.

Discussed Spirit World
I got to know Sir Arthur very well and we had long conversations about the highly controversial subject of the spirit world. I used to visit him in his spiritualist shop, close by Westminster Abbey, where one could find all sorts of literature relating to spirits.

Doyle was deeply moved by the widespread expressions of disbelief in spiritualism. One day when we were discussing him he called my attention to a life-size head-and-shoulders photo of himself, with the face of a young man looking over his shoulder. He said that was a spirit picture of a dead son who, as I recall it, had been killed in the first world war.

A Definite Sign
Sir Arthur told me he personally bought the plate on which that picture was taken. He said he himself put it in the camera and, after a friend had snapped it, Sir Arthur himself removed the plate and developed it. No other hand had touched it before the print was made. With tears in his eyes he exclaimed:

"How can anyone look at that picture and not believe?"

Conan Doyle knew the late Houdini very well and told me that the magician performed his amazing feats through spiritualism. He said Houdini was able to dematerialize himself (take on spirit form) and that it was in this manner he escaped from locked steel trunks and from prison cells.

Cited Specific Case
Appropos to materialization of spirits, Sir Arthur told me he had had experience with this phenomenon. He cited the case of an evil spirit which used to materialize itself in a house in southern England. He said one night when a spiritualist meeting was being held in the house this spirit materialized itself and badly manhandled one of the group.

I never debated spiritualism with Sir Arthur or anyone else. I just listened. But I did admire him greatly, for he was a magnificent gentleman with rare gifts. After he died I became acquainted with Lady Conan Doyle, his charming wife, who also was a firm believer in spiritualism. She told me that she was receiving spirit messages from her husband.

Warning in Spirit Message
One time when I was calling at her home in Cromborough she told me Sir Arthur had warned the family in a spirit message that there was a defect in the machinery of a racing car owned by one of the sons, and that it should be fixed immediately. She said the message was correct and that the boy might have lost his life if he

McKENNEY
Answers
Your CANASTA
Questions

BY WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
AMERICA'S Card Authority
Written for NEA Service

I am pleased to announce that Oswald Jacoby has accepted the suggestion of John R. Crawford and myself that a national laws commission for Canasta be formed. The commission consists of the following: Messrs. Oswald Jacoby, chairman; William E. McKenney, John R. Crawford, Walter L. Richard, Charles H. Goren, Albert H. Moorehead, Theodore Lightner, Moore Lee Johnson (California) and Mrs. Otilie Reilly.

At our last session I discussed with John R. Crawford of Philadelphia, with whom I confer each week before writing my columns on Canasta, the fact that you can legally talk across the table during the game. Do not misunderstand me—I do not mean that it can be done at any time during the game. But you are allowed to ask your partner the question, "May I go out?" and your partner may answer yes or no. In order to get the benefit of this little conversation that is allowed in Canasta, you should understand when to ask your partner this question and what his reply indicates.

When your partner asks you for permission to go out, do not say no unless you have a very definite reason for saying no. Suppose that you have in your hand 3 queens and 3 nines. It is true that if you can meld them you will gain 60 points; while if you get caught with them they will count 60 against you. That makes a difference of 120 points; but that is not a good enough reason for refusing to allow your partner to go out.

Always bear in mind that when your partner asks if he may go out he feels that it is best for your side that he should do so. His only reason for asking you for permission is to find out if by any chance you will gain more points by waiting a round or two.

Here is another situation. You have 3, 4 or 5 cards in your hand. Your partner has just picked up the pack and has 18 or more cards in his hand. You know that if you ask your partner at this time for permission to go out he will say no; but do not let that disturb you. By asking the question you inform your partner that you are embarrassed for a discard. You literally say to him, "Partner, I want you to meld all the cards you possibly can because the next time it gets around to me I want to go out."

Following are a few basic points to remember in regard to asking for permission to go out:

1. You generally should ask your partner if you may go out, because Canasta is a partnership game.
2. If you can complete a canasta, that generally releases you from the obligation to ask for permission to go out.
3. If you ask your partner if you may go out, and he says no, try to keep yourself in an out-position so that you may ask him again on the next round and on each succeeding round.
4. Your partner may refuse you permission to go out because he thinks he may be able to get the pack at his next turn to play. Maybe he will get the pack, or maybe the opponent will be able to make a safe discard. In either

Facing Tragic Dilemma

Mrs. Jack Ault holds her two-year-old son, Dean, 2, for whom an eye specialist says the choice is blindness or death. Dean has already had one eye removed (bandage) and the doctor says cancer has reached the other. The doctor said the eye must be removed to save Dean's life. (AP WIREPHOTO) case, at your next turn to play, ask again for permission to go out.

5. The most important point to remember is that if you can see no other course for your side, simply go out without asking your partner for permission. Do not place the burden of responsibility on him in such circumstances.

Mr. McKenney is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his Column.

C. F. Arnold New President Farm Bureau

Member of Hoover
Commission Talks to Pettis Countians

The Pettis County Farm Bureau held its annual meeting at the Convention Hall, Saturday night, with the largest audience ever attending one of these annual affairs. It was estimated that over 650 persons were there to enjoy palatable "eats" and take part in the business meeting.

C. F. Arnold of Hughesville township was re-elected as the Bureau president; James Harvey of the Longwood township was elected as vice-president and Mrs. G. F. Thompson was elected as the secretary.

The principal speaker for the evening was D. Howard Doane, chairman of the board of the Doane Agricultural Service, Inc., St. Louis, and a member of the Agricultural Task Force of the Hoover Commission.

Gradually Changing

His speech reads in part: "It is not probable that the form of government of the United States will be changed overnight as it was in Italy and Germany, prior to World War II, and I hesitate to predict the probability of a change similar to that which occurred in Britain after the war—but I am as certain as I have ever been that we are now traveling at an accelerated rate towards the types of government that now dominate Russia, the Balkan countries and England.

"The only difference is in the rate of change-over. We are doing it gradually, step by step, but ever going forward toward the completely socialized state. I shall present some facts sustaining this statement. Finding they are true, unbiased facts warrants me in saying serious days are ahead for us. It is time to stop, look and listen.

Reasons For Government

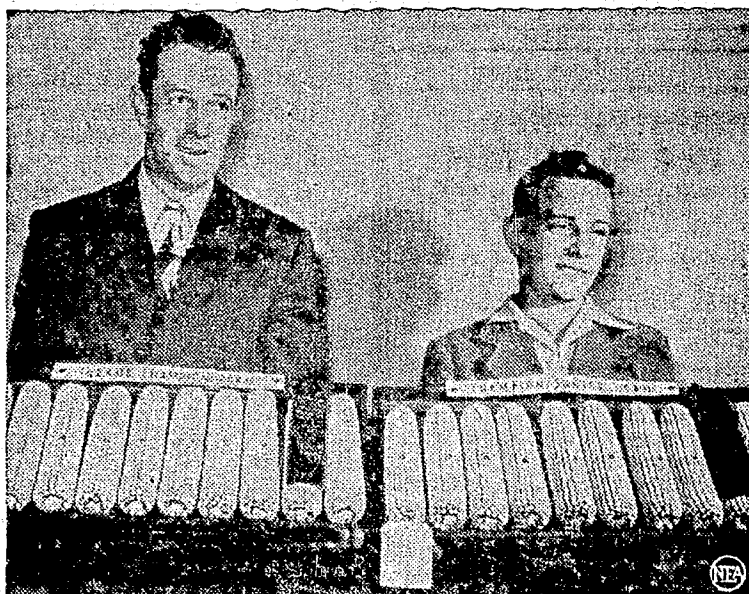

"There are but two fundamental reasons for having a government, that is, government performs but two essential services: a. Protection from without, for which we have armies and navies, and protection from ourselves, for which we have a police force. b. To act as judge to help us settle our differences peacefully."

"Government never gives the governed anything. A good government takes a dollar and returns seventy-five cents in actual service or material. A fair government keeps fifty cents for overhead, red tape and inefficiency, but in some cases, corrupt government keeps up to seventy-five cents out of the dollar of tax money."

Dangerous Situation

"Government lives off three types of take: a. It takes by taxing—what we have, what we do, what we earn and what we do. b. It takes by borrowing—this is taking from our old age and our children, including those yet unborn. c. It takes by demanding our liberties—this is the most serious of all. There is always a price. When tax money flows back to the people, government says how it shall be spent, where spent and what the receiver can and cannot do. The degree to which government is now taking our rights to decide and act as we please, is the most dangerous part of the present situation."

"The Hoover Commission was not created to dig up dirt which might be found in the various branches of the government. In making its studies it inevitably came upon some alarming facts. Here are a very few of the many uncovered: Salaries for the federal jobholders cost the taxpayers $5,650,000,000 in 1948. The paper work done on every government

KING AND PRINCE OF CORN—At the International Livestock Show in Chicago, Charles N. Fischer and his son, Leonard, 13, show samples of the corn that won them the titles Corn King and Corn Prince of America. The Fischers raised the prize-winning ears—Indiana Hybrid 844-D—on their farm near Shelbyville, Ind.

PRIZE HAM—Roland Anderson, 15, of Leland, Ill., shows the 225-pound Poland China hog that won the junior grand championship in the 4-H feeding contest at the 50th International Livestock Show in Chicago. The hog is one of 10,000 animals from 30 states exhibited in the biggest farm show on earth.

Modernizing Of Farm Home

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Arnold of LaMonte are remodeling their farm home preparatory to making it entirely modern. They have just recently installed a pressure water system and are ready to put in the sink and cabinets in the kitchen. The bathroom will come next. A concrete septic tank was built last summer.

The Arnolds have been members of the Balanced Farming Association in 1948 and 1949. They made their remodeling plans back in 1948 at which time they were assisted by Associate Agent Merle Vaughan and Miss Esther Dilsaver who was home agent at that time. Now, as they add each part, they know it will fit with what has been done before and with what is yet to be done.

Mr. Arnold, president of the Pettis County Farm Bureau, has made considerable progress with other of his Balanced Farm plans. Three additional terrace outlets were built in 1949. He also put his hog sanitation program in gear this year.

By sanitation program is meant three fields one of which is used for hogs each year. After a field is used for hogs one year it is cultivated a year in a row crop. It is then seeded back to clover with no hogs allowed on it or hog manure spread on it for 2 full years from the time the last hogs were there. In 2 years time worm eggs and filth diseases as necro will starve out and the ground is relatively clean again.

In National 4-H Contest

The Pettis County 4-H Livestock Judging Team composed of Bill Riley, Duane Leiter and Emmett Fairfax, which represented Missouri at the National Junior Livestock Judging Contest held in conjunction with the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago, placed fifteenth in rank among the 27 state teams entered in the event which took place, November 25.

The boys competed with over 200 boys and girls from over the nation in the largest national 4-H judging contest ever held to date. The 4-H judging team from the state of Wyoming took first place in the event followed by the team from Kentucky, South Dakota, Colorado and Texas, as the top five in the contest.

The contestants judged eight classes of animals, two of horses, two of sheep, two of cattle, and two of swine. They gave reasons on one class of animals judged in each division. The official judges stated that as a whole the classes were tough ones to judge.

Bill Riley was the high man on the Pettis County team ranking fourteenth from the top in the individual scores of the contestants. Emmett Fairfax was tied for 33rd place and Duane Leiter tied for 56 place in the individual rankings. Bill was seventh from the top in the swine division while Emmett was fourteenth high man in swine.

The horse classes were the most difficult of all for the boys to judge and the one in which they had the least experience. Horses are no longer judged in State 4-H judging contest and the team had judged horses only once previous to the Chicago contest.

Sheep Judging

An educational and informative sheep judging demonstration was recently held on the R. E. Kirchner farm, 2 miles south of Syracuse. Participating in the event were forty-five veterans enrolled in the Institutional On-the-Farm training course sponsored by the Vocational Agriculture department of the Tipton high school. The program lasted from 1:00 to 5:00 p. m. and was under the supervision of the five itinerant instructors of vocational agriculture.

Mr. Kirchner, who is a breeder of purebred Hampshire sheep, discussed qualities desired in the ideal mutton type. His remarks were illustrated by the showing of high quality breeding ram and ewe and discussing of their merits and possible points for improvement.

By showing a ewe before and after fitting, it was demonstrated to the group that an expert hand with shears or clippers could greatly improve the looks of a sheep, thus indicating the necessity for handling the animals to determine what actually may be covered up with wool. Mr. Hall, instructor of the Tipton "B" class, talked briefly on sheep judging and demonstrated the techniques of handling sheep during the judging period.

The sheep were divided into five classes of four animals each. The judging of each class was supervised by one of the instructors, who worked with nine students at a time until every one had the opportunity of individually handling and placing each animal. After everyone handled in a copy of their placement, the official placing of each class were given, along with a discussion of reasons for their placement. The official placings had been determined previously by the instructors who had judged, individually, each class and then taken the majority decision as official.

Tipton "A" class, V. B. Williams, instructor; John Dennis, Virgil Killethomes, Fred Koehn, Chester McNeal, M. D. Menhennet, Barney Newkirk, Carl Petree, Gene Schreck, Robert Shaw.

Mystery Farm Pictures in Central Missouri---

Whose farm is it?

Occupants of the above farm home may have wondered this spring about a plane buzzing low over their buildings. The picture explains it. The airplane pilot didn't know whose farm it was. The photographer didn't either. The two of them just flew around the Central Missouri area served by the Sedalia Democrat-Capital newspapers and took pictures. They couldn't take pictures of all the farms but they got as many good shots as possible during the light time.

So about once a week hereafter, until the pictures run out, the Sedalia Democrat-Capital will print these farm home pictures as a news feature. The newspapers would like to know whose farm homes they are.

The picture of the farm appearing in last Monday's Democrat and Tuesday morning's Capital was that of R. E. Hollenbeck, one mile east of La Monte and north of highway No. 50 and a portion of the land across a roadway is leased by Mr. Hollenbeck.

The 108 acres comprising the farm proper is mostly all in grass and is utilized for livestock, chiefly Hereford and Angus cattle.

Mr. and Mrs. Hollenbeck also have hogs and chickens, but do not go in for raising them for commercial purposes in a large scale.

They have resided there the past twelve years since they became owners of the place.

They have two daughters, Mrs. William Abell, residing in La Monte, and Miss Rowena Hollenbeck, who is attending La Monte High school.

Spreads 4-H Ideas On British Farms

READING, Eng., Dec. 5—Pretty 4-H girl, Margaret Slate is telling British farmers that talk of push-button farming in America is all nonsense. "People must have gotten such ideas from the movies," she says. "Too many think America is a push-button country where everything is done by machine."

Margaret, 22-year old daughter of a Barnardston, Mass., farmer, is visiting British farms on a 4-H club sponsored tour. She's not just looking—she's pitching in and learning what makes British fields and barnyards tick. When she returns home she's going to be a 4-H organizer.

Peppy Margaret, in her dungarees and embroidered lumber jacket, is making a big hit with British country folk. They like her common sense and get-up-and-go.

Volunteered Farmer R. Hodge of Berkshire: "She doesn't just watch us work—she rolls up her sleeves and joins in. She says that's the American way."

Bunceton group, Gordon Suduth, instructor; Allen Rover, M. Brandes, Walter Gerhardt, Charles Hann, Howard Hodges, Geo. Gander, Arthur Hein, Roy McCoy, Bill Moore, Herbert Morris, Virgil Wolfe, Dan Weimer.

Highest individual score was 470 out of possible 500 points, made by Gerhardt and Hein of the Bunceton class, and McDowell of the Otterville class.

The Bunceton class made the highest class average with a score of 440 points out of a possible 500.

Notre Dame Concludes a Great Season

Irish Are Still Talking About The Saturday Game

By Harold V. Ratliff

DALLAS, Dec. 5—(AP)—Notre Dame's gridiron champions are on the way home boasting the greatest four-year record in Fighting Irish history—but take it from coach Frank Leahy, they accomplished it in the nick of time.

Next year, laments that rugged individualist among pessimists, his team can't hope to be half as strong as the 1949 outfit which he called "the greatest team I ever coached."

Happy that they were able to finish four seasons without defeat while winning 36 games and tying two, the Irish still are talking about the thunderous game they had here Saturday when it required every ounce of drive and fight to turn back Southern Methodist 27-20.

Loses 9½ Starters
From this year's team—voted No. 1 in the nation—Leahy loses nine and one-half starters. And from the remainder of his first string squad 10 more depart.

That one-half starter comes about in this manner: Bob Lally and Fred Wallner divided time at one guard position. Lally is through but Wallner has another year.

Notre Dame is swept clean of All-Americans. End Leon Hart, tackle Jim Martin, and fullback Emil (Six-yard) Sitko, all are due to graduate.

Other Players Lost
Others lost from the starting team are end Bill Wightkin, tackle Ralph McGehee, guard Frank Johnson, center Walt Grothaus and backs Frank Spaniel and Larry Coutre.

Bob Williams, brilliant quarterback who outpassed the southwest's pass-happy boys in the Southern Methodist game, will come back to keep Wallner company.

Lost from the squad also are ends Doug Wraybright and Ray Espanan, tackles August Cifelli, Ed Hudak and Al Emijewski, guards Steve Oracko (that extra-point genius) and Jim Daller, quarterbacks Gerald Begley and George Dickson and fullback Mike Swistowicz.

Twelve players with varsity experience return. Leahy says he doesn't expect much help from this season's freshmen.

"We will lose five games next year," Leahy laments.

Black Labrador Reigned As National Retriever Champion

WESTHAMPTON, N. Y., Dec. 5—(AP)—A four-year-old black Labrador reigned today as national retriever champion.

F. T. C. Marvadel Black Gum, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bakewell, 3d of St. Louis, performed superbly yesterday to win the title in an extra series of trials.

There were seven dogs of the original 18 still in the running when the last day's trials began.

Springfield State Bears Beat Baker Wildcats 53-51

BALDWIN, Kas., Dec. 5—(AP)—Led by Gene Ruble's 21-point shooting, the Springfield (Mo.) State Bears defeated Baker's Wildcats 53-51 in a non-conference basketball game here Saturday night.

Vikings Prepare For January 2 Bowl Game

MARSHALL, Mo., Dec. 5—(AP)—The Missouri Valley college Vikings get busy today with preparations for their January 2 Oleander Bowl football game with McMurry (Tex.) college at Galveston, Tex.

It will be the third meeting in the last 13 months for the two teams. Valley defeated McMurry, 20-13, in the Boys' Ranch Bowl at Abilene, Tex., last December and this fall won a regular season game over the same team by the identical score, 20-13.

Two little All-America players, Tackle Herb McKinney, of Valley, and Back Brad Rowland, of McMurry, will be powering their respective teams for the third meeting of the two.

Clash For All-America Title Sunday

National League's Season Ends With Bears Playing Rams

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—(AP)—Cleveland and San Francisco meet next Sunday for the All-America football conference championship while the National league's regular season ends with the Chicago Bears trying to overtake the Los Angeles Rams for western division honors.

In yesterday's AAC semifinal playoffs, Cleveland's Brown eliminated the Buffalo Bills, 31-21, and the San Francisco 49ers outplayed the New York Yankees, 17-7.

In Sunday's final at Cleveland, the Browns will seek to keep the title they've held since the conference's inception in 1946.

Rams Lost Sunday

The Rams blew their chance yesterday to wrap up the western division crown in the NFL, losing a 31-27 decision to the Chicago Cardinals.

Their setback, coupled with a 30-21 victory for the second-place Bears over the Pittsburgh Steelers at Chicago, kept the western race alive.

The Rams, who have won seven games, lost two and tied two, still figure to wind up as the team that will meet the Philadelphia Eagles, eastern division winners, in the league playoff for the title Dec. 18.

Eagles Crushed Giants

The Eagles, who had cemented first place in the eastern circuit a week before, had a mere workout in crushing New York's second-place Giants, 24-3, at the Polo Grounds.

In other NFL games, Detroit edged the New York Bulldogs at home, 28-27 and at Washington the Redskins routed Green Bay, 30-0.

The Rams appeared to have their game, and first place, clinched with a 24-10 lead entering the final quarter. Then things happened.

The third of three late Cardinal touchdowns came as the gun sounded on Paul Christman's payoff pitch of 24 yards to Billy Dwell in the end zone. Christman is a former University of Missouri star.

No Scores Will Be Kept In Pre-Season Game Tourney

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 5—(AP)—A pre-season basketball practice tournament will be staged at Chillicothe Business College December 9 and 10 by the Interstate Conference.

No scores will be kept in the 20-minute games.

The conference tennis and golf meet will be held here May 12 and 13.

Minor League Baseball Session Opens

Major League Convention Opens Next Week in N.Y.

By Joe Reichler

BALTIMORE, Dec. 5—(AP)—Not a single big league trade may be announced at this 48th annual minor league baseball convention that opens up here today and does not end until Friday, December 9, but that does not mean that none will be consummated.

It is almost a certainty that at least two, perhaps three, player deals of "sizeable proportions" will be ready to be announced at the major league sessions in New York next week.

One concerns the world champion New York Yankees and the American League cellar-ridden Washington Senators. The Yankees, since the close of the 1949 season, have been trying to wrangle Pitcher Ray Scarborough and First Baseman Eddie Robinson away from the Mats.

Robinson Another Matter

They might as well stop wasting time on Scarborough. He cannot be had. But Robinson is another matter. It would not be at all surprising if the big slugger were a Yankee uniform next season.

"They (the Yankees) cannot have Scarborough," Washington Manager Bucky Harris emphasized last night. "He is not for sale nor for trade."

"Why, without him I've got nothing."

Asked whether the same applied to Robinson, Harris replied: "Well, we'd have to get some real good ball players in return."

Deal May Jell

Another deal that may jell involves the St. Louis Browns and Detroit Tigers with Brownie Second Baseman Gerry Priddy as the key figure. At present the Browns are asking something like $200,000 and an infielder to take Priddy's place. The Tigers are willing to go high for Priddy but not that high.

It looks like the red-hot Brooklyn-St. Louis Cardinals' trade talk has simmered down to a mere whisper. After weeks of dickering with Branch Rickey, St. Louis owner Fred Saigh said he didn't think the two clubs would ever get together.

The news that minor league head George Trautman was too ill to preside at the convention was a shock to the some 2,000 delegates from the 59 minor leagues. But business will go on as usual.

Sports Roundup

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—(AP)—If you've ever wondered why hockey never fulfilled its promise of becoming a real big league sport, Frank Boucher reluctantly admits it's because there aren't enough good players to go around. . . . That's not exactly the way Frank puts it, but he can pick out three to five players on each National league team he terms outstanding stars ("and no quotes, please; the other teams might get mad at me.") . . . And each team is carrying four or five players just good enough to hang on, who would be replaced if better players could be found. . . . If the league tried to expand, it would mean each team would have to carry more of these ineffectives. . . . "I've been out west looking at amateurs and the boys who are playing junior hockey look like juveniles," Boucher adds. "Even with 28 clubs to draw from the minor league prospects aren't any better than the ones we have."

Danny Zawadowski, who came from Germany to Watertown, S. D., as a displaced person, reported to high school coach Cletus Clinker for basketball practice.

Being a soccer player, he sometimes kicked the ball instead of dribbling it, but he tried hard and Clinker was sorry to put his name on the list of candidates to be dropped. But Danny couldn't read enough English to know what the list meant and Clinker couldn't speak enough German to tell him. . . . He continued to report and when the first game came, Danny was given a uniform. . . . Now Clinker says he could make a basketball player out of the kid if he only could talk to him.

Monday Matinee

Adolph Rupp, Kentucky basketball coach, is telling folks his NCAA championship team grossed $182,000 for the university last season. . . . Not a gross exaggeration, either. . . . Columbia's basketball team will visit Denver, Seattle and Eugene, Ore., on its Christmas trip. First time the Lions have visited the west coast since their 1934 Rose bowl tour. . . . Headline: "Harvard going to drop big time football." . . . Going to?

Rigid Practice For S-C Cagers This Week

The Smith-Cotton Tigers' first home game will be played Friday night at 8:00 o'clock at the Smith-Cotton high school, against the Jefferson City Jays. This basketball tilt will be the first conference meet of the season for the Tigers.

Coach James Ball said he intended to work the boys hard this week in preparation for Friday night's game. Even though the Tigers downed the Jays 40 to 23 in the conference tourney last week, coach Ball said the Jays will be an entirely different team than when the local cagers first played them. He said the Jays have started connecting with the baskets.

The Hannibal Pirates knocked the Tigers out of first place in the tournament last Saturday night by two points. The Pirates won the tourney last season.

Practice Session For CBC Cagers Tonight

The Central Business college basketball team will practice tonight between 7 and 9 o'clock at the Smith-Cotton high school gymnasium in preparation for a road game Wednesday night with the Houstonia cagers.

Also slated this week for the Scelalia basketballers will be another road game, Thursday night at Clinton.

Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, the college team will play host to the strong Bryan Harrington cagers of Kansas City at Convention hall. This team should provide keen competition for CBS, having won three straight games last week, one a victory of 84 to 46.

C.O.P. and Baylor May Play In Harbor Bowl, Dec. 31

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Dec. 5—(AP)—College of the Pacific and Baylor may play in the Harbor Bowl here Dec. 31.

Martin Flagg, Bowl chairman, said the two teams, which are having difficulties obtaining a stadium, will reach a decision tonight and he quoted President Walter Knox of C.O.P. as saying: "There's better than a fifty-fifty chance that C.O.P. and Baylor will play in the Harbor Bowl Dec. 31."

Knox told Flagg, however, that no contract will be signed until 7 p.m. (CST), tonight.

North Carolina Team Uses Three Platoon System

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 5—(AP)—North Carolina A & T college, which meets the Florida A & M Rattlers in the annual Orange Blossom game Saturday night, claims the two platoon system is outmoded—it uses three.

Coach William Bell uses two platoons on offense and another on defense. His offensive weapon includes a single wing team and a T-formation squad.

A few of the players appear on two of the platoons but Bell uses about 30 first stringers in his various formations.

No Kills Reported by Bow and Arrow Hunters

BRANSON, Mo., Dec. 5—(AP)—Missouri's 1949 archery deed season in Taney county ended yesterday. And after nine days of trying no kills were reported by the bow and arrow hunters.

Several hunters said they had good shots at the elusive bucks, but missed.

Only about 15 hunters were in the woods for yesterday's archery season windup, according to one conservation agent.

The Missouri Bowhunters Association named Ellis Trickey of Cape Girardeau president.

Today the season on deer is closed. Tomorrow the regular gun season opens on whitetail bucks in 25 counties. The gun season ends Saturday. Only Missourians may hunt.

College Cage Season Starts In Full Swing

Already a National Champion Team Lost An Early Contest

By Milo Farneti

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—(AP)—College basketball goes into its first full week of the season tonight and already one national champion dropped an early contest.

But another national titleholder started out the cage season in its usual style—with a victory.

The deflated five is the University of San Francisco. Playing with virtually the same team that won the National Invitational title last March, the Dons dropped a close one to San Jose, 43 to 38.

It will take more doing to down Kentucky, National Collegiate Athletic Association champ.

Earlier Games

With four first-team men graduated to the professional Indianapolis Olympians, the Wildcats still had enough left to drub Indiana Central, 84 to 61.

Then Siena College, one of the good small school quintets that escaped attention because there are so many, knocked down a favored Manhattan five, 48 to 33, in Madison Square Garden.

The Loudonville, N. Y., club showed that the Oklahoma A & M brand of play—a tight defense—still is a fundamental of basketball in these days of adding-machine scores. Siena finished second to the Aggies last season in limiting opponents' scoring.

Hank Iba's Oklahomans, NCAA finalists and second team in the Associated Press poll last season, opened with a victory over Arkansas, 43 to 41.

Loyola of Chicago, National Invitational finalist, lost to Minnesota, 55 to 51.

Opened With A Victory

North Carolina State, defending Southern Conference champion, opened with a victory over Washington and Lee, 67 to 47.

These other high-ranking teams in the 1948-49 AP poll also got off to good starts:

Illinois (4), Minnesota (6), Tulane (9), Bowling Green (10), Yale (11), Utah (12), Villanova (14) and Wyoming (17). But Ohio State, No. 20, stumbled before strong De Paul, 70 to 68.

Ike Williams to Defend His Title

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 5—(AP)—Ike Williams, with everything to lose and very little to gain, defends his lightweight boxing championship tonight in a 15-rounder with Chicago's Freddy Dawson.

Williams is risking his crown against a guy he already has licked twice in non-title engagements and for a share of the cheapest priced title fight in recent years.

K-State Cagers Are Favored to Win in Big 7

Wildcats Will Play Wisconsin of Big Ten Tuesday Night

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 5—(AP)—Coach Jack Gardner goes east this week with a Kansas State college basketball team that is favored to win the Big Seven conference basketball championship.

Gardner's Wildcats will play Wisconsin of the Big Ten at Madison tomorrow night. They meet Long Island University in New York Thursday and Canisius at Buffalo Saturday before heading back to Manhattan, Kas.

On the way home, Kansas State will stop over at Morgantown, W. Va., for a game with West Virginia Dec. 12.

Kansas State has played two non-conference warmup foes thus far. It beat Rockhurst of Kansas City, 83-34, and Emporia (Kas.) State, 59-50.

Gardner lost only one of the starters from his 1949 team that beat both the co-champions, Oklahoma and Nebraska, in the home stretch. He was guard Jack Dean.

Juniors on the Team

Clarence Brannum, big center, who has always been a slow starter, played in only six games a year ago. Brannum and Rick Harman, veteran forward, are back to handle the rebounding. Jack Stone, Ed Head, Ernie Barrett, and a number of other fine juniors are still around.

New star of the Wildcats is Sophomore James Iverson, a 5-foot 11-inch from Platte, S. D. Used only sparingly in the first two games, Iverson scored a total of 16 points.

Only Coach Wilbur (Sparky) Stalcup's Missouri Tigers will be in-active this week. The Tigers open against T. C. U. at Columbia, Mo., Dec. 12.

The Colorado Buffaloes, one of the question mark teams in the Big Seven, warm up with strong little Emporia (Kas.) State at home tonight and tomorrow before taking on Northwestern Saturday.

Jayhawks Play Tonight

Coach Phog Allen takes his tall Kansas Jayhawks to Creighton University, Omaha, tonight after having defeated Rockhurst 55-34, at Kansas City last Saturday.

Oklahoma, which beat Texas 65-48 and again will be a titular contender, plays only one game this week, meeting Illinois at Norman, Okla., Saturday.

Clayton (Chick) Sutherland's Iowa State Cyclones, who opened with a 49-39 victory over Luther (Ia.) college, continue tuning up against Grinnell at Ames, Ia., tonight. They meet Bradley at Peoria, Ill., Thursday.

Iowa State will get a second major test, Drake, at home Saturday.

Nebraska, 61-32 victory over South Dakota State, will meet Maryville (Mo.) State at home tomorrow in its only game of the week.

Top price for the Phil Glassman sponsored bout is $6.50. Some 10,000 fans are expected at Convention hall for the 9:00 p.m. (C.S.T.) bell.

In previous matches between the two contestants, Williams knocked out Dawson in four and won a disputed 10-round decision.

Dawson earned a draw in an earlier 10 rounder. Williams is a 2 to 1 favorite for tonight's battle.

This may be the last time Williams defends his lightweight laurels—win, lose or draw. The Trenton, N. J., socker has had lots of trouble getting down to the 135 pound weight limit in recent bouts and may move up into welterweight ranks.

America's 30-Year War Against Communism: 7

Find 'em, Try 'em And Deport 'Em is The Key to Anti-Red Fight, But Latter Bogs Down

By Peter Edson
NEA Washington Correspondent

Although charges that the federal government was well stocked with Communist and fellow traveler employees have been frequent since the first term of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, it took a war and its backwash to drive America into doing anything specific about self-preservation.

The loyalty investigation, for example, was not launched until October, 1947. The attorney general's subversive list, intended to air in public the Communist front organization (Lenin called them the "transmission belt"), came as part of the $20,000,000 loyalty program.

The United States has had Red spies for years, but it remained for Canada to arrest the first of them—Lieut. Igor Sergeevitch Gouzenko, who confessed to being a member of five A-bomb spy groups with headquarters in the Russian embassy at Ottawa.

But now that the country is relatively awake, it can do the needful for protection to the tune of a paraphrase: Find 'em, try 'em and deport 'em.

Tom Clark
A 100-plus front.

Here's how the government has been finding 'em:

The first temporary commission on government employe loyalty was set up by President Truman shortly after the 1946 election, largely as a result of such charges as (February, 1945) the Army had commissioned Communists and (April, 1946) the state department had at least 108 Communists or sympathizers on its payroll. The denials in both cases staved off investigations for the time, but proved to be the ample incentive for the loyalty program.

In December, 1946, a few weeks after appointment of the first temporary commission, the U. S. Court of Appeals held that the government had every right to fire any employe of doubtful loyalty. With this test case behind him, Mr. Truman went ahead in February, 1947, to revise civil service rules in such a way that Commie employes would no longer enjoy the protection of obsolete regulations.

In the following month, with the way thus paved, the President set up the loyalty program under Executive Order 9835. The order was based entirely on recommendations of the temporary commission. It called for:

1. Immediate investigation by the FBI of every government employe.

2. Establishment of a master personnel index.

3. Placing of responsibility for employe loyalty on department heads.

As of today, some 2,667,700 basic investigations have been conducted, with 13,000 cases suggesting further field work by the FBI. Of the 13,000 there have been 123 persons found ineligible for federal employment. An additional 848 withdrew applications.

The grand total of those resigned or dismissed at the end of the year, when the loyalty investigation is completed, will be something over 1000.

In another "find 'em" sector is the attorney general's official list of subversive organizations. This came into being as a supplement to the loyalty check. It called for scanning six categories: Totalitarian, Fascist, Communist, subversive, advocates of acts of force and violence to deny others their constitutional rights and advocates of government alteration by other than constitutional means.

Under Attorney General Tom Clark, the justice department toted up a total of more than 100 subversive organizations. These ranged from the villain of the piece, the Communist Party, U. S. A., through the Trotskyists (Socialist Workers party), the Soviet friendship blocs (of which there are at least four), friends of Spanish Republicans (roughly 10 groups), to the fronts working ostensibly for peace.

It is neither possible nor necessary to list every one of these subversive front organizations here. Such listing, unless undertaken on the exhaustive scale of the justice department, would be pretty futile anyway. Most of the older fronts have gone through several names and have changed their coats as the political temperature varied. Underneath they all come to the same thing—Nicolai Lenin's statement: "The dictatorship of the proletariat cannot be effectively realized without 'belts' to transmit power from the vanguard to the mass of the advanced classes and from the advanced class to the mass of those below."

Incidentally, if the attorney general's 100-plus figure alarms you, give an ear to the 1948 inventory of the Un-American Affairs Committee—562 front organizations publishing at least 190 organs.

The "try 'em" phase of government strategy against Communism may be bypassed with a simple reference to the matters still fresh in the public memory: The trials of Judith Coplon and Alger Hiss, Whittaker Chambers' "pumpkin papers," the 11 top Communists in New York.

If there is any flaw in this aspect of the campaign it is in the lean-over backward effort to give the defendants the fairest of all possible shakes—as witness Judge Harold A. Medina's patience in New York, over nine weary, ear-shattering months and the admission into evidence at Judy Coplon's trial of secret items found in her purse, over the government's protest that their publication might endanger national security.

Now, having drawn a pretty picture of some skillful maneuverings on the battleground, you come again—and it seems inevitably, in dealings with the Communists—to the bog-down. This is in the third, or "deport 'em" phase, of the government's program.

As of January, 1949, the Justice department had some 800 alien Communists it wanted to deport. But because of weaknesses in the law, a niggardly immigration service appropriation, and the absolute discipline of the Soviet regime abroad, nothing much could be done about them.

The justice department needs the Hobbs bill, which would permit holding alien subversives in custody until they are deported. But opponents call this establishment of "concentration camps in peace-time." The immigration service is supposed to operate on an appropriation of $27,000,000, with which to maintain 7,000 employes and patrol 8,000 miles of border. Finally, the Soviet refuses to accept a deported person unless the U. S. government can prove he was a Russian resident before the revolution of 1917 and the Iron Curtain satellite countries.

FLOOD FOLLOWS GAS BLAST—Workmen, silhouetted against flames, attempt to turn off valve of gas main which blew up in the heart of Allentown, Pa., and burst a large water main. Nearby cellars were flooded and police and firemen had to evacuate a number of residents. Damage from the flood and fire was estimated at $100,000. (NEA TELEPHOTO)

SKYROCKET THROUGH SONIC WALL—The Douglas Skyrocket, trans-sonic research plane, piloted by Gene May, 45, flashes by at low level over the dry lake bed at Muroc Air Force base in California, prior to the firing of a 10-second burst of rocket power. The needle-nosed little plane traversed the test course at a bare 50-foot altitude while traveling at an undisclosed supersonic speed. (NEA TELEPHOTO) tries have taken a similar stand. The U. S. still has a corps of professional revolutionists, known to the officials to be so dangerous that nothing but deportation will nullify their threat. But this comes up against a bland refusal from Joe Stalin's countries to accept them. And finally there is a squeamishness which says, "To put these men in custody would be to destroy the Bill of Rights."

What it all adds up to is a fact made more self-evident every day the war against the Communists goes on—the constitution, while it is America's bulwark, is also its Achilles Heel.

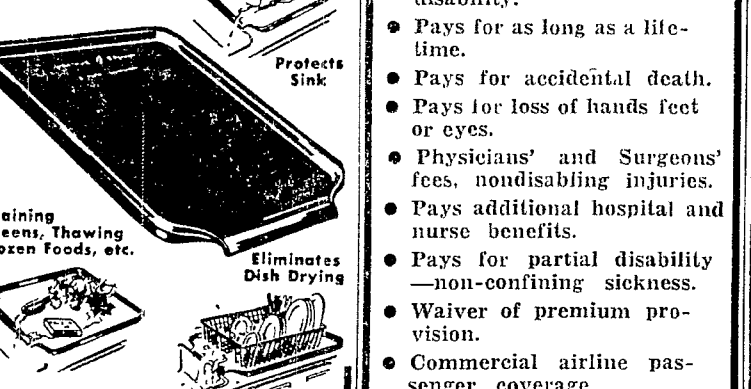

Next: What the churches, schools and colleges are doing to fight Communism.
